Crossing James River Dry-Shod. Dear Dispaich: I acccepted an invita-tion from Mr. Melvin Jones, of the Danville railroad, day before yesterday, to cross the James river on foot. We started from Hax-all's Mills, and by making diverse and sundry (and yet not "divers") circuits seen found ourselves in the middle of the stream. We noticed numberless holes made in the large granite blocks by small stones which had been sent whirling round and round where they were accidentally caught till they had bored holes four and six feet deep, and some of them two feet in diameter. In one darge piece of granite we noticed four such large holes, some of which united low down and formed little tunnels under the rock. In some of these boles we found but one small smooth stone. In others quite a number had been caught, and night and day had gone round and round amid the roar of the water, doing their work. I suppose some mathematician could tell you how many years each of these little artisans had been at work, but I forbear to press.

In the centre of the river we met with two beautiful lakes, almost entirely surrounded by land, and completely shut in from the outside world, fringed with verdant grass and weeping-willows. Neither sight nor sound from Richmond or Manchester disturbed our repose. No seanymph ever bathed her white feet in a grotto more beautiful than this. This spot should be on canvas. We could not forbear ablution in the crystal waters. It required some activity to jump from rock to rock before we reached the first lake, but the rocks have been so long dry that there is but litte danger of slipping.

The second lake was equally shut in, and almost as beautiful as the first. Near its edge we saw two peach-trees loaded with beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fruit, which, I suppose, had not been visited by the "boys."

After passing the second lake the "road is open" to Manchester. The bed of the river looks tike some rocky mountain-gorge washed occasionally by torrents. Here and there you would meet with a small pool of water. We ascended to the top of "Frog's rock," on the Manchester side, and declined to make a speech from our elevated position, except to say "farewell" to the spot on which we shall never again put our feet.

We returned by the Danville bridge, resolved to repeat this crossing dry-shod if we ever had the opportunity. The trip would repay you, Mr. Editor. If Mr. D. ac companies you, I would advise the use of good plank to bridge the bad places, for gravity is a great law, and don't suspend like the banks Saturday afternoon. Yours,

Paper is now substituted for wood in Germany in the manufacture of lead-pencils. It is steeped in an adhesive liquid and rolled round the core of lead to the requisite thickness. After drying it is colored and resembles an ordinary cedar pencil; The pencils sell in London to retailers at about sixty cents a gross.

It is becoming fashionable among intelligent men to send a card instead of going to a party. Being out all night dancing, and eating an indigestible supper while standing up, does not hurt the card.

The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is, satisfied that exercise would be fortitude enough to try it.
